San José, Costa Rica, September 27, 2024. As part of its 45th anniversary, the Inter-American Court of Human Rights is pleased to announce the launch of the English version of the self-taught course “The Right to Freedom of Expression in the Case Law of the IACHR,” and the Portuguese version of the self-taught course “The Rights of Indigenous and Tribal Peoples in the Case Law of the IACHR.”

With these two new translations, the scope of the Court’s education processes is broadened to reach both the specialized and the general public. The purpose of these courses is to disseminate the work of the IACHR and its case law; they are free of charge and universally accessible through a computer or mobile phone with Internet access. Each course is composed of ten video lessons taught by experts from the Inter-American Human Rights System, with supplemental readings and other educational resources.

We appreciate the cooperation of the Kingdom of the Netherlands, who supported the translation and interpretation efforts in both languages.
